UAE-based renewable energy developer AMEA Power has signed a long-term PPA with the national utility of Djibouti for a 25MW solar PV plus battery storage unit. AMEA Power announced the signing of the power purchase agreement (PPA) with Electricité de Djibouti (EDD) today (29 August).

For rechargeable batteries in storage, I would discharge them about once or twice a year by putting them in a flashlight, radio, etc and letting it on until they die and then recharge. This helps cycle the battery and is better than trickle charging. Like others have mentioned, cool and dry conditions are best for all battery types.

It can be more cost-effective to buy a battery as part of an entire new solar panel system package than to retrofit it to an existing system, especially if the existing system is several years old (it may need substantial upgrading to accommodate the battery; for example, older systems are often relatively small, say 3-5kW, and may need more ...
