Will offshore wind power be a pillar of Taiwan's green energy supply?

This is because the wind farms signed in recent years will be connected to the grid from 2024 onwards, which, coupled with the subsequent zonal development of 500 MW per phase, will make offshore wind power an important pillar of Taiwan's future green energy supply.

What is a successful business model for solar in Taiwan?

An example of a successful business model for solar in Taiwan is Vena Energy, a renewable energy IPP owned by US-based Global Infrastructure Partners. Vena owns and operates five solar projects in Taiwan with a total capacity of 97.8 MW, and another 312.4 MW of solar plants under construction to be completed by the end of 2022.

What type of energy does Taiwan use?

Taiwan's renewable energy generation relies on solar, onshore, and offshore wind power, with solar capacity being the majority. Taking the capacity structure in 2022 as an example, 86% of the capacity came from solar power, while onshore and offshore wind accounted for 7% of the total.

Who is responsible for the development of wind and solar energy?

Apart from a few high-profile demonstration projects, the development of wind and solar energy will largely be led by independent power producers (IPP). Taiwan Power Company (TPC), a state-owned enterprise, owns power transmission lines in Taiwan, and will be the sole recipient for the power produced by IPPs.

What is the supply chain for solar power equipment in Taiwan?

The local supply chain for solar power equipment is mature and complete, and materials for most projects will be fully sourced in Taiwan. For construction, EPC, and equipment opportunities, U.S. industry and investors should partner with local industry to win contracts, as local industry is highly competitive.
