

Sungrow battery Isle of Man

Does Sungrow have a residential battery?

Sungrow's current residential battery is the SBR HV. This has stackable battery modules with 3.2 kWh of usable storage each. There's a 3 module minimum and that amount gives 9.6 kWh of usable storage, which will be enough for many households. If you want more, up to 8 modules can be stacked on top of each other for 25.6 kWh.

Are Sungrow batteries safe?

Of course, it's still a good idea to get the amount right at the start so you won't have to pay to have additional modules installed. Sungrow uses lithium iron phosphate (LiFePO) battery cells. This is the safest type of lithium battery. But to actually be safe, they need to be part of a well-designed battery system.

Do Sungrow batteries provide backup power?

Sungrow battery systems can provide backup power. The switchover is almost instantaneous, so there's no temporary power loss. The batteries can also charge from rooftop solar during the day when the grid is down. Sungrow batteries are also suitable for off-grid use.

Who makes Sungrow batteries?

Sungrow is a giant Chinese company and the world's largest inverter manufacturer. They also make home batteries that are a popular choice here thanks to a combination of affordability and reliability. Sungrow was founded in 1997 by RenXian Cao, a professor at Hefei University of Technology.

How long does a Sungrow battery last?

The Sungrow battery warranty is better than average. It lasts 10 years or until it has discharged 13,440 kWh per module. Whichever comes first. For most households, it's likely to last the full 10 years. But for households that use the battery at a high capacity factor it will end before then.
