Swiss startup Swiss Clean Battery (SCB) AG said this week that it will build a gigafactory to produce pure solid-state batteries at its headquarters in Teufen, Switzerland.

120 million batteries are purchased every year to power various devices and appliances in Switzerland. 70 % of these batteries are recycled, however, too many are still being disposed of in household waste. Valuable metals are lost as a result. By law, used batteries must be returned to retail outlets or taken to collection points.

And half of this amount is for the car battery exchange. The exchange itself was CHF 100 which seems to be about right, but the battery cost is a freaking CHF 330. I checked which battery they installed after I saw the invoice and it's just a normal Varta car battery (000 915 105 FB; 12V 59Ah 380/640A) which goes for about CHF 160-180.
